Changes Held Necessary on Catch-All Bill

...that a similar provision would be included in the bill. In a surprise move the house committee by a 16 to 13 vote wrote into its bill late yesterday the provision for a two-year extension of rigid supports for cotton. Members from the cotton and corn belts joined forces on the issue.
The cotton congressmen contended that cotton growers should be entitled to a second year of high price support since the bill would allow corn growers to remain under high supports in 1954 if they choose to do so by majority vote.
Among other things, the omnibus bill would boost prices producers get for milk, effective Sept. 1, but allow the administration to use a new subsidy plan under which market prices of butter, cheese and dairy products could be lowered. It also would cut back surplus peanut plantings and allow wheat farmers to vote themselves under a "two-price" plan in 1955.

2 Candidates Are Heard at Rally for T. F.

Advocates of the removal of inequities in the Taft-Hartley labor law and a charge that the Republican party is trying to split the farm and labor vote featured a labor rally here Thursday evening.
Featured speakers were Claude J. Burtenshaw, Democratic candidate for the U. S. Senate, and Gregg Polvin, candidate for the Democratic nomination for second district congressman.
Burtenshaw called for the removal of certain inequities in the Taft-Hartley labor law. He declared labor's fair share of the national income should not be jeopardized by inequitable laws.
"For that matter, for any segment of society to receive more than its share means that some other segment will receive less than its share," Burtenshaw contended.
Speaking on foreign policy, Burtenshaw attacked the Wallace conception that Russia had peaceful intentions as well as the Republican failure to take effective measures against the Soviet Union's aggressive policies.
"A realistic program that will give us the initiative in foreign policy is sorely needed, and our security will not be insured until the Russians are forced to a defensive position," he stated.
"When we have the initiative we can manipulate this policy to our own advantage on domestic as well as foreign matters, but the Republicans have yet to learn what can be accomplished in this department of government."
"The administration has allowed the right-wing isolationists to force them into an indefensible position that lost us the initiative when thinking along more international lines could have saved us what will be the debacle of Indochina," Burtenshaw said.
He concluded by pointing out that a realistic foreign policy could be a long range proposition, that it should be clearly stated so that both our friends and enemies know where we stand, and then it should be adhered to until publicly revised.
Polvin charged the GOP is trying to drive a wedge between labor and the farm vote.
"The secretary of agriculture, rather than explaining the problems of the farmer to the consumer, is bent on arousing public indignation on purely fictitious grounds. Farmers are not responsible for the all time high reached by the cost of living this month. If farmers gave what away bread would go down one cent," he claimed.
"The farmer and labor are interdependent on each other. Idaho has a farm-based economy and it would be extremely shortsighted of labor to begrudge farmers their fair share of the nation's production. I favor a program designed to assure labor and all other elements of the economy a fair share. I am opposed to all discriminatory labor legislation," he said.

Yank Oil Workers Construct "Little America" for Sumatra

(Editor's note: In the morning jungle of Sumatra, there is a bit of America. It is one of the many places in remote parts of the world where Americans are developing the latest in modern life.)
The story of Yank oil workers in Sumatra is a story of a new life. The 300 men at the next level of supervisors are Indonesians.
The men at the top live in $25,000 prefabricated houses, brought from Sweden, with all-electric kitchens. One of the families here is that of Arnold Kaufman, California. The Kaufmans are typical of the Americans who live here in the center of a vast wilderness.
They pay $3 a month for their $25,000 house. Kaufman, like the other Americans, gets base pay of from $7,500 to $10,000, with allowances and cost of living bonuses added. Mrs. Kaufman buys a pound of frozen filet mignon for about 40 cents at the company-subsidized store. She has three servants.
Mrs. Kaufman spends most of her time reading and sewing. The children, Dolores, 12; Beverly, 11, and Arnold, Jr., 8, attend a company school staffed by American teachers. Occasionally, the Kaufmans get to Singapore, Jakarta or Bali in the company plane. Under company policy, they will fly soon to the United States, at company expense, for a six-month leave because they have been here three years.
"I like it here. I can ride the buses," Arnold says. The company maintains a bus service in the camp.
"I like it, too," Beverly said positively without giving a reason.
But Dolores, the eldest, said: "There's nothing to do." She is growing up.

Taylor Talks For Farmers

JEROME, June 25—Glen Taylor spoke to a group of Jerome county farmers at the ranch home of Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Witham Thursday evening.
Taylor, a candidate for the Democratic senatorial nomination, said the decision of the federal reserve board to loosen credit and make money available was a "demagogic device" to influence elections.
"This order to get money moving just before election reminds me of when I was a young fellow in the Republican days of Harding, Coolidge and Hoover," said Taylor. "The same approach was used year after year. They would give the economy a shot in the arm of easy money just before election so the voters would be casting their ballots in a glow of expectancy that perhaps the hard times were ending. Then the big boys would tighten down again right after election and the farmers, workers, and small businessmen would have to starve it out until just before the next election," he said.
"If it is good, as the federal reserve statement claims, to make money available to aid the present slump, then why," asked Taylor, "did the Republicans raise the interest rate in the first place ... ?"

Free Nations Lack Unison, Hoover Says

CHICAGO, June 25 (AP)—Former President Hoover declared today that "our difficulties are not due to the communists—they are due to a lack of unison among the free nations in dealing with these difficulties."

He added in an address at the annual dinner of the Merchandise Mart Club of Chicago:

"Differences Wide

"We must realize that there are wide differences in racial inheritance, economic and political objectives in each of the free nations and that the interests, objectives and policies of nations constantly shift in this rapidly changing scene.

"In dealing with these gigantic problems of today we must have tolerance and understanding of these differences."

No Miracles

The former President told some 1,000 merchants and industrialists that "we cannot expect miracles to solve the world's problems."

"Men must hold to the right and fight with any policy of compromise. But especially in foreign affairs, support should be the backbone until issues of deep concern arise. And moderation is a virtue even then."

Firetruck Loses Faithful Trailer

YANKEEVILLE, Tenn., June 25 (AP)—A fire truck No. 1 roared out of the station, swung east and hurried to the scene of a fire.

But the truck did. The trailer rolled straight across the street and knocked one car and rammed into another.

The second car rolled into a third. The third car rolled down the sidewalk, tipped, and landed on its side. A lamp post, lurching over the car, crushed it.

The fire truck halted its trip by backing up. The driver, who was not hurt, said he did not know what happened.

The fire was extinguished by the time the truck arrived. The cause of the accident is being investigated.

Surfboard Again Scores Kayo Of McLeMORE in Hawaii's Surf

By HENRY McLEMORE

HONOLULU, Hawaii — The last time I was in Honolulu I ventured a hula lesson and snapped a bone in one of all hula places—my foot.

On the visit before that I ran amuck on a surfboard—and came within a ripple of decapitating two women swimmers, for which I was warned that another such demonstration would result in my bathing trunks being taken away from me, permanently.

And on my first visit, way back in 1937, I attempted body-surfing in the mile-high waves of Makapuu beach on the far side of Diamond Head and barely escaped setting up light housekeeping in D. Jones' locker.

When I landed here this time I resolved to see to it that I did not endanger my own life or those of others. I would spend most of my time, I told myself, in my hotel room catching up on my Proust, Spillane, Santayana and Edgar Rice Burroughs.

That high resolve lasted about as long as it took me to buy an aloha shirt with trunks to match and head for Waikiki beach. I had been stretched out on the sand barely long enough for 18,000 freckles to show their shining faces when along came Panama Dave, wearing a bright red shirt, a slice of watermelon grin and strutting a uke.

I hadn't seen Panama for 17 years, when he and Sammy Colgate were my beach boys. Sammy is gone now, his ashes scattered by his comrades riding surfboards beyond the reef. But Panama looked not more than 10 minutes older than when I had seen him last. After I had told him my name, and reminded him of 1937, he instantly recognized me too, and this made me feel very happy and gave my ego a delightful jolt in the arm.

Panama suggested that we go surfboarding.

"I'd love to, but I have a broken back," I lied, "and the last thing the doctor told me before I started on this trip was to stay away from surfboards."

"Okay," Panama said, "but I know the reason. You're just getting old and out of shape. When the surf gets a little calmer I'll fix it up for you to take an outigger canoe ride with some elderly ladies. If you're up to it, of course."

Panama might just as well have slapped me across the face with a gauntlet, so direct was the challenge. But instead of sending him my card by a second, I foolishly was on my feet with a middle-aged bound and before I returned to my senses I was stretched out on a giant redwood board, paddling it toward the open sea.

McLeMORE

A redwood surfboard weighs close to a hundred pounds, and paddling it out against the incoming waves is every bit as much fun as, say, ploughing or shoeing a fractious Percheron. Some smart fellow, is going to make a fortune by inventing a device that does for surfboarders what a ski lift does for lovers of the icy slopes.

Paddling a surfboard brings into play many forgotten muscles, especially those at the base of the neck. The last time I used this particular set must have been when I tried to stick my head through the slats of my crib. These muscles yelled to high heaven for mercy, and when I didn't answer their cries, they just curled up in knots and gave me a size 15 1/2 charley-horse.

Panama wouldn't let me ride any old wave, but insisted I wait until just the right one came along. Finally he spotted one rolling in—a mean, tough one, with 5 o'clock shadow, slits for eyes and a bulldog chin.

As bad luck would have it, I managed to catch it just right.

For two or three glorious seconds I rode it, gliding along at 30 or 40 miles an hour.

Then, for what seemed an inglorious half hour, it rode me.

It knocked me to the bottom where I made friends with a starfish, a seahorse and what looked like an owl, but couldn't have been.

Then it knocked me to the surface just in time for the chunk of redwood to land on my head.

Parchest may seem out of place in Hawaii but that is what I am playing from here on out during my stay.

New Viruses That Apparently Cause Polio-Like Disease Have Been Found

SAN FRANCISCO, June 25 (AP)—Discovery of new viruses apparently causing paralytic disease resembling polio has been reported by a Pittsburgh research team.

The viruses turned up in a new study which indicates that gamma globulin really can give fairly good protection against polio viruses, or make an attack less severe.

Dr. William McD. Hammon and associates of the University of Pittsburgh made the recheck study on children given either GG or useless gelatin in controlled tests in 1951-52 in Utah, Texas and Iowa.

Some of the children who came down with paralytic disease diagnosed as polio actually did not have any of the three viruses known to cause human polio, the team told the American Medical association.

Altogether 16 new viruses were isolated from children in the study. Eight of the viruses were not affected at all by GG in laboratory tests. GG is a blood product which carries antibodies against the polio viruses.

Some of these viruses produced paralytic disease resembling mild polio, since those children could not be shown to have been made sick by the true polio virus, Dr. Hammon said.

Whether the Salk vaccine or other vaccines might protect against these or other viruses is something for future checking.

Study of the new virus is continuing. Of those tested so far, none is coxsackie virus, which is known to cause polio-like illness.

Dr. Hammon said the recheck, which eliminated cases of sickness not really due to polio virus, shows GG appears more effective than previously thought in guarding against polio—if the shot of GG can be given at the right time.

And if they got the GG a week to five weeks before virus attacked them, 88 per cent were protected. When GG did fail to prevent polio, it often made the attack milder.

Until a polio vaccine is proven effective, GG thus remains as the best available guardian against paralytic polio.

Cadets at "West Point of Air" Will Find Many Scenic Spots

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., June 25 (AP)—Cadets at the new "West Point of the air" will be 7,000 feet high before they get near an airplane.

Their academy will stand at that altitude at the edge of a city already famous for its scenic setting and a climate that seems to cure incurable ailments.

In their back yard the cadets will have Pike's peak, the Pike National forest, some of the country's best ski runs, and a spectacular jumble of grotesque rocks called the Garden of the Gods. The weather will range between an average August temperature of 69.6 degrees and a January average of 29.9 degrees.

Selection of Colorado Springs as the site of the $126,000,000 air force academy is a triumph for mother nature and a group of citizens who lured the air force here with a big show of western hospitality.

A special committee headed by Brig.-Gen. Charles A. Lindbergh considered more than 400 proposed sites for the academy. It considered such factors as weather conditions, land contour, natural beauty, cultural opportunities and an "inspirational" setting.

Mother nature gave Colorado Springs an average of 250 flying days a year. To the east lie the broad, flat Colorado plains and to the west the rugged Rockies.

Cultural attractions include a famous fine arts center, the lavish Broadmoor hotel where many Hollywood stars vacation, and the private co-educational Colorado college. Denver lies 60 miles north, the University of Colorado 94 miles northwest at Boulder, and Central City, Colo., home of a renowned opera and art festival, 100 miles northwest.

The 15,100-acre academy site, mostly private ranch land, is being handed the air force on a platter. The Colorado legislature appropriated $1,000,000 toward buying the land and Colorado Springs citizens made up the remainder of the $1,400,000 cost in their own contributions.

Businessmen estimate the academy will bring Colorado $100,000 a year in additional business. The first class of cadets is expected to start school at a temporary site in Denver by July, 1955. The academy here, to be completed in 1957, eventually will turn out 2,500 air officers a year.

New York drivers get more warnings from Connecticut police than those from any other state, with those from Massachusetts and Rhode Island following in that order.

Cup Is Taken By Meridian's FFA Judging

MOSCOW, June 25 (AP)—A Meridian high school team came through to win the sweepstakes cup at the University of Idaho's annual FFA state judging contest.

It was five wins in a row for their school and six straight for their coach, Doran Peterson. Peterson's team has won the coveted cup each of the six years it has been offered as grand prize.

Hunter Paroled In Man's Death

CASCADE, June 25 (AP)—District Judge Gilbert Norris has withheld sentence for two years for a Boise man who pleaded guilty to involuntary manslaughter in a hunting death, but ordered him not to hunt in any state for five years.

Robert J. Miles pleaded guilty to the charge in the death of Artie L. Obenchain, Boise, who was fatally wounded Oct. 1, first day of the 1935 hunting season.

During the two-year period, Miles will be paroled to the state board of corrections, and Norris said the case would be reopened if he violated the parole.

Russia Vetoes Western Plan For Arms Cut

LONDON, June 25 (AP)—The western powers have disclosed their most sweeping disarmament proposal yet, calling for complete scrapping of atomic and hydrogen weapons on a strictly enforced time table. But the Kremlin has already curtly rejected it.

The Russian-vetoes plan, tying in nuclear disarmament with big scale cuts in conventional weapons such as tanks and planes, was made public following a London conference of the United Nations subcommittee on disarmament which ended in a deadlock Tuesday after 20 meetings. Participating were the United States, Britain, France, Canada, all supporting the plan, and Russia.

Ban Rejected
The western powers rejected a Soviet proposal that insisted first on immediate and unconditional prohibition of the use of atomic energy for military purposes.

Morehead Patterson, U. S. envoy to the conference, told the Russian States favored joining the Soviet union in eliminating atomic and hydrogen bombs, which "could result in the annihilation of both sides."

Plan Toothless
But he attacked the latest Russian plan as toothless and simply a rehash of previously rejected proposals which, if accepted "would leave the free world vulnerable to a Pearl Harbor that might engulf it."

Patterson declared the Russian proposals—unlike the western plan—failed to insure adequate controls behind the iron curtain and could be summed up in six words—"Ban the bomb, trust the Russians."

Britain and France originated the western plan.

Law Officers to Graduate at ISC

Representing the FBI at the exercises will be Percy Wyle II, special agent in charge, federal bureau of investigation—Butte, Mont. Melvin E. Singleton, special agent and director of the 1954 session of the training academy, and Burleigh K. Allen, special agent and academy instructor.

From Magic Valley graduates will be Buhl Police Chief Thomas M. Kendrick, Gooding county deputy sheriff Bill Bunn, Jerome Police Chief Jack Conner, Lincoln county Sheriff Thomas Conner and Twin Falls Police Chief Victor Cummins.

Demo Candidate Slaps at Chamber

KAMLAH, June 25 (AP)—Calling the Idaho State Chamber of Commerce "a super cabinet that orders Republican governors around," State Sen. Clark Hamilton, Weiser, says that if he is elected governor "nothing will be cleared with the chamber."

The candidate for the Democratic nomination said in a campaign statement here that "when some of the chamber big-wigs whisper a suggestion, I'll tell them to refer it to the Democratic party in the county in which they live."

"If the county committee finds it worthy, we in the legislature will give it serious attention."

Six Youths Drive Tractor in Water

MCCALL, June 25 (AP)—Six youths were arrested yesterday for driving a $12,000 tractor into Payette lake, Valley county Prob. Atty. Robert Remakus reported.

Remakus said four of the boys were from Boise, one from McCall and one from Donnelly. They were still being questioned late last night. The tractor was dumped into 140 feet of water Saturday night after its owner, Dr. H. Hemmich, left it at the scene of a logging operation.

Plane Damaged

LEWISTON, June 25 (AP)—A crop dusting plane crashed near Lapwai, Ida., shortly after takeoff yesterday, but the pilot escaped injury.

Jim Boyles of the Hillcraft Aircraft company, Lewiston, said the plane flipped over after taking off for a pest spraying flight. Considerable damage was done to the light duster.

Power Boosted Up To 15% By New Gasoline Discovery

Additive blended into Shell Premium Gasoline breaks through power barrier set up by pre-ignition and spark plug "miss"

Whether yours is a new car barely past the 2,000-mile mark—or an "old faithful"—it's almost certain that you're getting as much as 15% less response than you should when you step down on the accelerator, a major oil company reports.

Explaining this in everyday terms, the engineers say there is in effect a wall between you and full engine power. It is caused by lead and carbon deposits that glow red hot in combustion chambers to ignite fuel prematurely—before the piston is in proper firing position.

These same deposits form on spark plugs and act as electrical conductors, short-circuiting them. Then, the engineers point out, your spark plugs misfire.

Twin power thieves

These twin power thieves, pre-ignition and misfiring, are found to be most active when you need power most, during acceleration or on hills.

New Federal Anti-Firecracker Law May Bring Safest July 4 for Years

By United Press
A new federal anti-firecracker law may make this the safest and sanest July 4 in many years.

The new law, which goes into effect July 1, outlaws the shipment of fireworks into any state where their sale or use is prohibited by state law.

According to the National Fire Protection association, there are 30 such states.

The federal law is expected to plug a loophole through which mail order shipment could be sent into states banning fireworks.

The law, signed by President Eisenhower June 4, carries penalties of up to one year's imprisonment, a $1,000 fine or both.

In recent years legislation and safety campaigns have cut fireworks casualties sharply. The American Medical association, which used to tabulate fireworks casualties, stopped doing so in 1946 when the number became "negligible."

But half a century ago fireworks took a heavy toll. According to Niel Plummer, director of the University of Kentucky's school of journalism, 468 persons were killed, most of them by fireworks, in July 4 accidents in 1903.

Plummer, in an article in Editor and Publisher, said 3,983 were injured on July 4 that year.

In recent years, seven deaths were recorded in 1947, five in 1948, none in 1949, one in 1950, none in 1951, two in 1952 and one in 1953.

States which ban the sale of fireworks are Alabama, Arizona, Connecticut, Delaware, Florida, Idaho, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kentucky, Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New Mexico, New York, North Carolina, North Dakota, Ohio, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Tennessee, Utah, Vermont, West Virginia and Wisconsin.

The National Fire Protection association said a dozen other states have partial restrictions. In addition, many cities and towns have anti-fireworks ordinances of their own.

Parking Fines
A total of $13 in bonds was posted with city police Thursday for parking violations.

Posting $1 bonds for overtime parking were Ray Bush, John Leiser, Audrey Montgomery, Howard Allen, Gene Holler, Merle Feamster, Derle Matwell, Anne White, C. G. Allen and Varrall Price.

C. A. Holmes posted a $2 bond for improper parking.

Drive to Hike Wheat Quotas Has Criticism

WASHINGTON, June 25 (AP)—A top agriculture department official said today that all-time high wheat surpluses will make any move to boost acreage allotments next year "hard to justify."

"The official who declined to be quoted by name, said the department would go along with an increase in the scheduled 55,000,000 acre allotment only "with great reluctance."

Comment Given
He made the statements when asked to comment on the congressional drive to boost the proposed acreage in wheat belt states.

The chairman of the agriculture committees of both house and senate agreed yesterday that congress will modify the 1955 wheat control program before adjournment.

Chairman George D. Aiken, R., Vt., of the senate committee said increased allotments are needed to avert a full-blown depression in vast areas of at least four states—Kansas, North Dakota, Montana and Oregon.

Hardship Seen
The department official conceded the acreage cut next year will mean a hardship on some wheat farmers.

He said the department plans to attempt some adjustments on that score within the 55,000,000 acre national allotment, the minimum allowed.

But he opposed any increase in the total acreage, saying that present supplies are so excessive the nation needs only 10,000,000 acres planted to wheat next year to take care of its needs.
